

Dr. René de J. Romero Troncoso

René de J. Romero-Troncoso received his PhD. degree with honours from Autonomous University of Queretaro in 2004 and the BE and MSc. degrees from FIMEE-University of Guanajuato, where currently he is full time professor, coordinator of Masters program in Electrical Engineering, national researcher SNI I and leader of HSPdigital group focused on Hardware Signal Processing on FPGA for applications in mechatronics. He had supervised over 140 dissertation works, published 2 books about Digital Systems and more than 60 journals and conferences papers. He received the technologic innovation award ADIAT 2004 and the ReConFig 2005 award for digital systems groups.